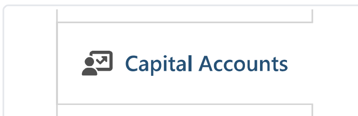
Capital Accounts

The Capital Accounts tab is a specific tool created to monitor funds that are contributed by, or distributed to, business owners or investors.



To create a new capital account, click on the New Capital Account button.

The Capital Accounts tab features several columns:

Code

The Code column displays the code for the capital account.

Name

The Name column displays the name of the capital account.

Control account

The Control account column shows the name of the control account associated with this capital account. If you haven't set up custom control accounts, the default name for all control accounts will be Capital Accounts.

Division

The Division column displays the name of the division that this capital account is associated with. If you are not using divisional accounting, this column will be blank.

Balance

The Balance column displays the overall total of all amounts (debits and credits) entered into this capital account. This figure is clickable, allowing you to view the individual transactions that contribute to the balance.

Click the Edit columns button to choose which columns you want to display.

See Edit columns for more information.
